

Library Materials Displays Policy

The Concord Free Public Library creates Library Materials Displays for the public's browsing of the informational, cultural, and recreational holdings of the Library's collections.

Library Materials Displays include, but are not limited to, free-standing bookcases, built-in displays, free-standing exhibit cases, and decorative elements found throughout the Main and Fowler Libraries.

Occasionally the Library may partner with outside organizations to create a Library Materials Display, however, this is at the discretion of the Library Director.

Library Materials Displays are filled with materials that have been acquired under the guidelines of the Library's Collection Development Policy. New acquisitions will be displayed as a matter of course, along with titles and media that reflect the ever-changing interests, demographics, and diversity of the Concord community. "Staff Picks" titles are curated, rotating selections that reflect the personal tastes and reading preferences of staff members. Library Materials Displays may also include content curated by Library Trustees of the Concord Free Public Library Corporation, members of the Library Committee, or Board Members of the Friends of the Concord Free Public Library.

The display or dissemination of materials in the Library does not constitute Town support, sponsorship or endorsement of the materials in the display, nor does the absence of materials in the display reflect non-support. Any requests for reconsideration should follow the Library's Collection Development Policy.
