

Dianne Bunis is a resident of Groton, MA. She specializes in large format photography of the New England landscape. She photographs nature with a field camera and 4 x 5 film, which she develops herself. The images are printed on wood based fiber paper.

“Light in nature is the inspiration for my subject matter. Photography allows me to create images that capture the beauty and simplicity of the natural world. I’m attracted to subtle renderings in light and shadow as close to the way the human eye experiences them.”
