

Little Women Continuous Read at the Concord Free Public Library

The book Little Women by Louisa May Alcott is beloved by readers all over the world. In honor of the Louisa May Alcott's Orchard House's 100th birthday, there will be a continuous read of the book beginning Friday afternoon, May 18 at 1 pm, continuing during the day on Saturday, May 19 and ending Sunday, May 20 in the afternoon. Numerous readers will take part in this celebratory program, co-sponsored with the Orchard House, in the Children's Room of the Concord Free Public Library, 129 Main Street, Concord. Costumed characters will add color to the weekend of reading. Come for part or all and hear members of the Orchard House staff, Library staff, patrons and Town officials reading from the book. The birthday celebration will be complete with birthday cake served after the final reader on Sunday afternoon.
